EidosMedia's content solutions platform is now available to the Federal government and public sector on A&T Systems' GSA IT 70 schedule.

Silver Spring, MD—May 4, 2017—EidosMedia, a global content solutions software provider, announces its partnership with A&T Systems, Inc., a certified small business IT Cloud Solutions and services provider, to their Federal Partner Network, authorizing the company to resell EidosMedia's Méthode content solutions platform through A&T's GSA IT 70 schedule (GS-35F-247DA).

Interested government agencies can now contract Méthode and its accompanying modules through A&T Systems on the General Services Administration's list of federal suppliers.

"Méthode has captured the interest of Federal agencies and government technology solutions providers since its introduction" said Steve Ball, general manager for EidosMedia Inc. "We are excited for the opportunity to bring Méthode to the public sector through our partnership with A&T Systems, and deepen our relationships within the public sector to enhance our government solutions."

A&T Systems, a cloud solutions provider has been providing IT solutions and services within the public sector, across multiple contract vehicles for more than 32 years. As a FedRAMP-Certified AWS Advanced Consulting Partner, Government Competency and an Authorized Government Reseller Partner, the company is a leader in cloud computing adoption offering IaaS, XaaS, PaaS, DevOps and SaaS solutions.

The team's extensive experience implementing partner SaaS technology solutions within dozens of federal departments and agencies puts them in the perfect position to marry Méthode with the government's business and technological needs.

"A&T could not be prouder to take Méthode into the public sector where the need for advanced digital technologies is expanding rapidly for agencies of all sizes that create and deliver critical content." said Dr. Ashok Thareja, President and CEO of A&T.

'The Méthode platform offers federal agencies the tools to transform their business processes and the orchestration of urgent communications, bringing productivity to new levels. It differentiates itself by converging an advanced content management framework with a highly configurable, collaborative workflow of work processes that helps users make quick, informed decisions."

A&T Systems is part of EidosMedia's Federal Partner Network authorized to implement, configure and service Méthode to the public sector's needs.
